

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

A Thought.

The waving rose, with every breath
Scents the air with its summer air;
The wounded rose bleeds forth in death
A sweetness far more rich and rare.

It is a truth beyond our ken—
And yet a truth that all may read—
It is with roses as with men,
The sweetest hearts are those that bleed.

The flower which Bethlehem saw bloom
Out of a heart of grief and pain,
Gave never forth its full perfume
Until the cross became its vase.

Dames Entertained.

The national society of Colonial Dames, which is holding its biennial council in Washington, D. C., was given a reception Thursday evening at Rauscher's, by the District of Columbia Society of Dames. Colonial colors in decoration, music and the presence of beautiful gowned women rendered the reception a handsome affair. Miss Agnes Peter, in old rose chiton, introduced Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, the national and Virginia president of the Dames, and the visiting Dames to the receiving party. Mrs. Cox wore an exquisite gown of pale blue brocade, with pearls and carried American Beauty roses.

In the receiving party were Miss Strong, in yellow brocade and lace; Miss Woodhull, in grey messaline; Mrs. Parsons, in white Irish point; Mrs. Kearney, in old rose radium and diamonds; Mrs. Corcoran Hill, in black chiffon; Mrs. Hickey, in black embroidered net over white; Mrs. Murray Addison, in black chiton; Mrs. Hill, in black tulle.

A pretty compliment paid by the Dames to four women not in the society, but who assisted in the Jamestown loan exhibit held at the Octagon House, says the Washington Post of Friday, was to send each a beautiful bunch of flowers and to ask them to assist at the reception.

These were Mrs. Hill, of South Carolina, who wore a pink gown trimmed with lace; Mrs. Peter M. Wilson, white chiton; Mrs. Marcus Benjamin, of Massachusetts, in black lace; and Mrs. Parker, of North Carolina, in black tulle.

Many beautiful gowns were worn. Mrs. Arthur Lee wore black chiffon over white; Mrs. Foraker, white chiton; Miss Mary Custis Lee, black chiton and lace; Mrs. Gilchrist, in black; Mrs. Hickey, black lace; Mrs. Gouverneur, white brocade and lace; Mrs. Gordon Crawford, white accented-pleated dress; Mrs. Windsor, gray silk; Mrs. John Cropper, spangled net; Miss Davidge, white silk; Miss Taylor, pink satin, and Mrs. Randall Hoses, black chiffon.

Meeting of A. P. V. A.

The Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities held a general meeting at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the rooms of the Virginia Historical Society, for the completion of business begun by the central committee on Tuesday last at noon.

Mrs. J. Taylor Ellyson presided at the meeting, and those present were Mrs. J. H. Wellford, Mrs. S. H. Yonge, Mrs. W. G. Stanard, Mrs. Norton Savage, Mrs. C. W. Brock, Miss Ellen Harvie Wade, Miss Mabel L. Stratton, Mrs. R. W. Watkins, Mrs. W. A. Powers, Mrs. Alice M. Tyler, Mrs. Henry Gibson, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. J. Enders Robinson, Mrs. J. H. Southall, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. George L. Christian, Mrs. J. Caskey Cabell, Mrs. W. T. Robins, Mrs. E. V. Valentine, Mrs. Lynch, Mrs. Egbert Leigh, Jr., Mr. W. G. Stanard, Dr. J. H. Wellford, and Colonel S. H. Yonge.

Mrs. Ellyson announced that the purpose of the meeting was to complete the unfinished business begun by the central committee on Tuesday last, in reference to the building which the national organization, Daughters of the American Revolution, will erect at Jamestown.

After some discussion, in which it was brought out that the building will be modeled after the home of Sir Walter Raleigh, at Hays Burton, in England; that it is to be a two-story high and contain twelve rooms; have wings and a spacious audience hall, the following motion was carried:

"Resolved, That the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities most gratefully accepts the memorial building to be erected by the Daughters of the American Revolution at Jamestown, Virginia, and the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities cordially extends to the Daughters of the American Revolution the use, at all times, of this memorial building, within the prescribed limits of the charter of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities."

On motion of Mr. W. G. Stanard, it was agreed that the site of the proposed building should be decided by a conference between the Jamestown Committee of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities and Mrs. Purcell, the regent of the Commonwealth Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to whose energy and effort the interest of the national body in Jamestown Island is largely due. The secretary of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities was instructed to write a letter of thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Purcell.

Mr. Stanard voiced the regrets of Mrs. Randolph Cannon, chairman of the Jamestown Artisan Well Committee, at her inability to be present. He announced for her that the flow and rise of water in the well rendered it a complete success. The sparkling purity of the water and its pleasant taste could, he said, be tested by members of the association at the annual excursion to Jamestown on May 12th.

The steamer Pocahontas, newly returned from her spring cleaning, has been secured for the excursionists. About six hundred seats have been provided and an excellent lunch will be served under the direction of Miss Betty Ellyson. It will obviate the trouble and necessity of lunches being carried by any one wishing to save trouble.

A check room will offer a safe place of deposit for satchels, umbrellas and packages of all kinds. Tickets at the rooms of the Virginia Historical Society are selling well. They will be placed on sale next week at Grant and Thaw's, the

WAYS AND MEANS.

By LEWIS CARROLL.

Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, who wrote as Lewis Carroll, is the beloved author of Alice in Wonderland, and Alice Through the Looking Glass. This is the story told by the "White Knight."

I'll tell thee everything I can;
There's little to relate.
I saw an aged, aged man,
A-sitting on a gate.
"Who are you, aged man?" I said,
"And how is it you live?"
His answer trickled through my head
Like water through a sieve.

He said, "I look for butterflies
That sleep among the wheat:
I make them into mutton-pies,
And sell them in the street.
I sell them unto men," he said,
"Who sell on stormy seas;
And that's the way I get my bread—
A trifle, if you please."

But I was thinking of a plan
To dye one's whiskers green,
And always use so large a fan
That they could not be seen.
So, having no reply to give
To what the old man said,
I cried, "Come, tell me how you live!"
And thumped him on the head.

His accents mild took up the tale;
He said, "I go my ways
And when I find a mountain-rill
I set it in a blaze;
And thence they make a stuff they call
Rowland's Castile Oil—
Yet twopence-halfpenny is all
They give me for my toil."

But I was thinking of a way
To feed oneself on batter,
And so go on from day to day
Getting a little fatter.
I shook him well from side to side,
Until his face was blue;
"Come, tell me how you live!" I cried,
"And what is it you do?"

He said, "I hunt for haddock's eyes
Among the heather bright,
And work them into waistcoat-buttons
In the silent night.
And these I do not sell for gold
Or coin of silvery shine,
But for a copper halfpenny
And that will purchase nine."

"I sometimes dig for buttered rolls,
Or set limed twigs for crabs;
I sometimes search the grassy knolls
For wheels of Hansom cabs.
And that's the way" (he gave a wink)
"By which I get my wealth—
And very gladly will I drink
Your Honor's noble health."

I heard him then, for I had just
Completed my design
To keep the Menl Bridge from rust
By bolting it in wine.
I thanked him much for telling me
The way he got his wealth,
But chiefly for his wish that he
Might drink my noble health.

And now if e'er by chance I put
My fingers into glue,
Or madly squeeze a right-hand foot
Into a left-hand shoe,
Or if I drop upon my toe
A very heavy weight,
I weep, for it reminds me so
Of that old man I used to know.

Whose look was mild, whose speech was slow,
Whose hair was white as the snow,
Whose face was very like a crow,
With eyes like cinders, all aglow,
Who seemed distracted with his woe,
Who rocked his body to and fro,
And muttered mumbly, and low,
As if his mouth were full of dough,
Who sported like a buffalo—
That summer evening, long ago,
A-sitting on a gate.

VIRGINIA BAPTISTS MAKE GOOD SHOWING

Largest Gifts Ever Yet Made to House and Foreign Mission Boards.

The Virginia Baptists will show up splendidly at the annual assembling of the Southern Baptist Convention at Chattanooga next week. The State will have a large delegation in attendance. Rev. Dr. W. R. L. Smith, of this city, will preach the annual sermon, and the statistical figures will show that Virginia Baptists are right up in the front line among the liberal contributors to the mission boards of the convention.

The convention year, as already stated, closed last Monday night at 12 o'clock. While the exact figures are not made public it has been learned that Virginia's contribution to foreign missions goes beyond $40,000, which was the highest figure yet reached. The only State that leads Virginia is Georgia, whose gifts exceed $50,000.

Virginia Baptists contributed to the Home Mission Board, of which Rev. Dr. Gray, of Atlanta, Ga., is secretary and general manager, between $15,000 and $16,000.

The convention meets in Chattanooga next Wednesday, the 9th.

Shooting Rats, Shoots Himself.

Hugo Clay, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Herndon Clay, who live in the vicinity of the National Cemetery, met with a serious accident Thursday night while engaged in shooting rats in the yard of Mrs. Whitlock, a neighbor. In some way the trigger of the gun caught the young man's finger, and the entire load of shot lodged in the boy's shoulder. Dr. G. E. Barksdale, who was called in, dressed the wound, which is not thought to be fatal.
